A PERSONAL APPROACH TO CANCER CARE

New Yorkers now have a better option when it comes to cancer care

We began our quest to conquer cancer on the North Shores of Suffolk County. We endeavored to provide the same state-of-the-art care one would receive in Manhattan, right here in their own backyard. We sought to provide care to each and every local community that was unparalleled. Now, we have expanded: with locations in Queens, the Bronx, Manhattan, and more to come, we will continue to bring that same quality, personalized cancer care to each and every New York community. From pre-treatment care to post-treatment services, we make it an easy choice for you, our patient, based on CARE, and CARE alone.

Cancer can strike anywhere, at any time. Now, you can conquer it... close to home.

Buses Replace Montauk Branch Trains November 10–13

Other LIRR branches affected as well

The Long Island Rail Road will be closing the single track between Speonk and Montauk for approximately 52 hours on the weekend of November 10–13 to complete installation of a new, modern signal system on a stretch of the Montauk Branch that is currently unsignalized. This $79.1M project is funded by the MTA's 2010–2014 Capital Program and the Federal Transit Administration.

During this weekend, the following bus service will replace trains between Patchogue and Montauk:

- Eastbound customers riding to stations Bellport through Montauk will board buses at Patchogue for service to their station, and can expect up to 29 minutes additional travel time.
- Westbound customers from stations Montauk through Bellport will board buses at their station and ride to Patchogue where train service will resume – these buses will depart up to 34 minutes earlier than normal train time to preserve train connection times at Patchogue.
- On Friday night, the 8:36 PM and 11:35 PM eastbound trains from Babylon, and the 8:53 PM eastbound train from Jamaica, will all terminate at Patchogue. The 9:59 PM westbound train from Speonk and the 10:38 PM westbound train from Montauk will both originate out of Patchogue.

For more information, call 511 or view the special weekend timetables for the Montauk Branch and other affected branches at mta.info/lirr.

"Along with the New York Subway System, Hamptons Subway is the only underground transit system in the State of New York."

DOWN IN THE TUBE

Our celebrity spotters reported a double triple this week. In one subway car on one train were Paul McCartney, Jimmy Fallon and Alec Baldwin, and in two cars behind were Christie Brinkley, Jay Z and Steven Spielberg. All were going from Bridgehampton to East Hampton last Wednesday at 3 p.m. and apparently none of them saw any of the others doing just that. Our spotters surreptitiously followed them up the escalators and, believe it or not, they all went off in different directions.

UNUSUAL SMELL

People have been reporting an unusual smell of turkey, cranberry sauce and stuffing throughout the system during the last few days. We are checking to try to find out where it is coming from and why.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT E-Z PASS

As we reported last week, we installed an E-Z pass system at Southampton that would let you through the turnstiles without a subway card swipe. Great idea! No subway cards! And it uses facial recognition! Last week's attempt at this was a failure. By Friday, though, the system was fixed, but when Frank Haliday, the Chairman of Subway Pass Ltd. pulled the switch at the ribbon-cutting, he vanished in a puff of smoke. We are afraid to turn it off now, so it is up and running in Southampton. Just remember it's only working in Southampton. At other stations you have to use the card or you'll get arrested.

SUBWAY JUMPERS

Local teenagers have embarked upon a very dangerous new fad. They come down to the platforms after school, board a subway car, then, as it heads off into a tunnel, climb up through the emergency escape hatch and, when a train coming from the other direction approaches, leap from the roof of their subway to the other one, then climb down inside and get off where they started. Their "partners" wait on the platform with a cell phone to time their return—if they see them across the tracks within eight minutes, the leaper wins a bet—or something. We've reported this behavior to parents, but, so far, the only suggestion we've received is to lock the escape hatches. This we cannot do.

DELAY CAUSED BY FILMMAKER

Hamptons Subway was pleased to have internationally renowned director Santana Picard shoot a pivotal scene for his upcoming film Priscilla Learns at our Water Mill station. It was scheduled for 5 a.m. on Friday, when Picard said the light coming down the escalator would be just right, and it was to end at 5:45 a.m.; just before the subway system opens for the day. It was a simple scene. Priscilla, played by three-time Academy Award winner Fifi La Rue is on the platform and mumbles to herself "here it comes" and the train pulls into the station. Who could have thought this would be so hard? Our trainman Ben Brantley took the directions "roll 'em" and "cut" on cue, but Picard never seemed to think he got it right. They filmed the scene over and over, finally bringing Brantley to tears and it wasn't until 8:17 a.m. that Picard yelled, "It's a wrap." We regret the two-hour and 17-minute delay before we were able to open the subway to the public that morning. But it was for a good cause.

COMMISSIONER ASPINALL'S MESSAGE

An unidentified man has been handing out leftover Halloween candy in the subway cars at dusk every day since October 31. If you see him, please report him to the nearest subway employee. 🍬

TOPLESS SMOKING BAN PROTESTED

A recent meeting of the Hamptons Health and Safety Board (HHSB) was disrupted when a large group of angry motorists arrived to protest recently enhanced restrictions on smoking. Police were called in to keep the meeting from getting out of hand. At issue for the protestors was a new rule banning smoking in topless cars. Randy Talbac, the head of a local smokers' rights group, spoke to the assembled meeting. "When I initially read about the ban, I thought it must be a misprint—I thought they were probably eliminating smoking in topless BARS, not topless cars! And since there aren't any topless bars that I know of in the area, I wasn't too upset. But then it turned out it really was about cars—convertibles, that is—and it's outrageous." The ban on smoking in cars with no tops, whether it's a convertible with the roof down or a jeep-type vehicle that has no top, came about as a measure to cut down on second-hand smoke exposure. Christopher Escopillo, the co-chair of the HHSB, explained the genesis of the new rule. "We were getting a lot of concerned citizens coming to us, explaining how they would be sitting in Hamptons traffic behind some guy in a sporty convertible, with his top down, puffing on some big noxious stogie. From their point of view, they are forced to inhale unhealthy air for however long they're stuck behind the guy. So we decided it was up to the HHSB to do something about it." Talbac and his supporters were not impressed by this reasoning, and for a while the situation looked like it might turn violent. In the end, however, cooler heads prevailed, and Talbac vowed to return with a lawyer and fight the new rule in court.

POLICE DEMAND HALT ON DRONE LEAF BLOWERS

Saying that the technology has not yet been sufficiently tested, the Hamptons Police called for an immediate halt to the deployment of leaf blowing drones.

Police spokesman Larry Hirsch said that the ban would be in effect until protocols are developed for dealing with malfunctions. "It's all well and good that you can have a bunch of leaf blowers working on your lawn being operated remotely from a bunker out in Coram somewhere, but what happens if the operator loses control of them. Then you've got a situation where there are rogue leaf blowers flying all over the place, and who's responsible for handling that mess? That would be the police."

Hirsch warned that severe penalties would be brought against anyone caught with a remote-control leaf blower or remote-control leaf blower paraphernalia. 🍃

The Majestic Bird Is Back on the East End After 50 Years

BY DAN RATTINER

From the lawn of the Bridgehampton Museum last week, I looked up into the sky to see an enormous bird, larger than any I had ever seen before here on the East End, gliding effortlessly along, fearlessly taking in the scene below.

I knew immediately what I was seeing, because about 10 years ago I toured the Olympic Peninsula where the State of Washington meets Canada and had seen a bird exhibiting this remarkable and majestic behavior. It brought its wings into its sides and headed down for a bit, gaining speed and coming lower and lower. But then, sensing a wind updraft, it unfolded its wings to their great span—seven feet and more—and rose up on it again in order to swoop effortlessly some more.

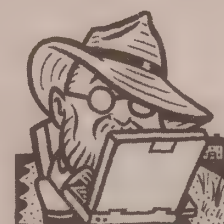

It looked more like a giant kite or glider than a real bird. And seeing it perform this way over Bridgehampton is what convinced me this bird was a bald eagle. The national bird. The bird in the center of the Great Seal of the United States. The bird on state flags, pennants and silver dollars. The bird considered sacred by Native Americans. The enormous bird that to many signifies the dignity and strength of this great Union.

What is a bald eagle doing on eastern Long Island? It turns out that the bald eagle, which before 1950 was here in great numbers, is back. In the early 1950s, the bald eagle was wiped out on Long Island by the use of trucks spraying DDT along the streets of the East End. DDT killed mosquitoes, and was said not to hurt wildlife, particularly large wildlife. But nobody ever noticed that the eggs being laid by the female bald eagles had a very thin and vulnerable calcium shell, easily broken, easily a meal for small land predators. In short order, the bald eagles were gone. Thirty years passed before anyone realized the cause. Because of this and other problems, DDT was banned. And it has taken all this time for them to begin to come back.

There are currently bald eagle nests on Shelter Island, in Mastic and Riverhead, and perhaps in Shinnecock. The eagle I saw swooping around probably came from that nest on Shelter Island. It would require almost no effort at all for an adult eagle to ride the updrafts and downdrafts from Shelter Island to Bridgehampton. I took photographs of this eagle. And a woman took a photograph of it swooping around up there with a longer lens than I have. It was an amazing sight.

For the last 50 years, the king of the all the birds here on eastern Long Island has been the osprey. Rectangular wooden platforms, built by humans, are atop about (Continued on next page) 500 telephone poles built for that purpose here on the East End, near bodies of water in most of our towns and villages. Ospreys like them and build nests about four-by-six feet up there. Adult osprey have wingspans of five feet and are formidable creatures indeed. They can be seen diving for fish in our lakes, harbors, ponds and bays, heading into the water head first to come up with fish as long as 16–18 inches.

Osprey's outer toes are reversible, so one toe on each foot acts like an opposable thumb. They can dive into water, grasp a fish of up to four pounds and take it back up into the sky, wriggling and still alive. You can identify an osprey by its white chest feathers, cap and oversized wingspan compared to other birds. Its call is a series of yawk, yawk, yawk noises. When alarmed it changes to a cheereek! noise. They are fierce defenders of their families and nests.

And they mate for life. If a mate dies, they mourn, and, sometimes, they find a new mate. But sometimes not.

But now the osprey's reign on the East End is over. The eagles are in town, and these eagles are ruthless: They steal fish away from an osprey as it goes home. The eagles can even swoop down on an osprey and have it for dinner. The osprey depends on fish for 99% of its diet. The eagle depends on fish for about 80%. For the rest, it eats ducks, gulls, coons, herons, egrets and geese. There are videos of bald eagles making off with rabbits, raccoons, beavers and even harbor seals. And they hold the record for carrying off the heaviest load of any bird. They've been filmed carrying off mule deer fawns weighing 15 pounds. They can drive the osprey out of their nests and take them over for themselves. And they can work in pairs. There have been cases where bald eagles work together to land prey. One will distract the prey while the other sneaks up behind to grab it.

But be aware there has never been an instance where a bald eagle has even tried to take off with a small boy or girl. No one knows why.

The bald eagle has a mating ritual that is unique. A male and a female, high up in the sky, approach each other and lock talons. The result of this is a tumbling down from the sky in this talon embrace, going over and over in grand cartwheels until, just before they hit the ground, they unlock their talons and fly off. Here in the Northeast you might see them do this in February when courtship begins.

When the nest is full of eggs, either the male or female is always on guard nearby. It's the female that almost always does the nest-sitting, though.

Bald eagles might take over an osprey nest, but they have to add to it. An eagle nest can be up to six-by-ten feet and weigh half a ton.

There are laws against killing a bald eagle. You can, only under special circumstances, be allowed to hunt one. There's a government group that will gather up eagles that have died and give the carcasses and features and pelts to nationally registered Indian tribes for their use in religious practices.

Eagles diving for prey do not go head first into the water. They dive down and snatch up fish in their claws from just below the surface. Eagles have been clocked diving at 99 miles per hour. The wind electric-generation industry has to pay a fine if their windmills kill more than 1,400 eagles per year. On the other hand, with eagles making this huge comeback, they are now listed as "a species of least concern." Eagles were de-listed from the List of Endangered and Threatened Wildlife on June 28, 2007. And did I tell you they have been known to eat their young?

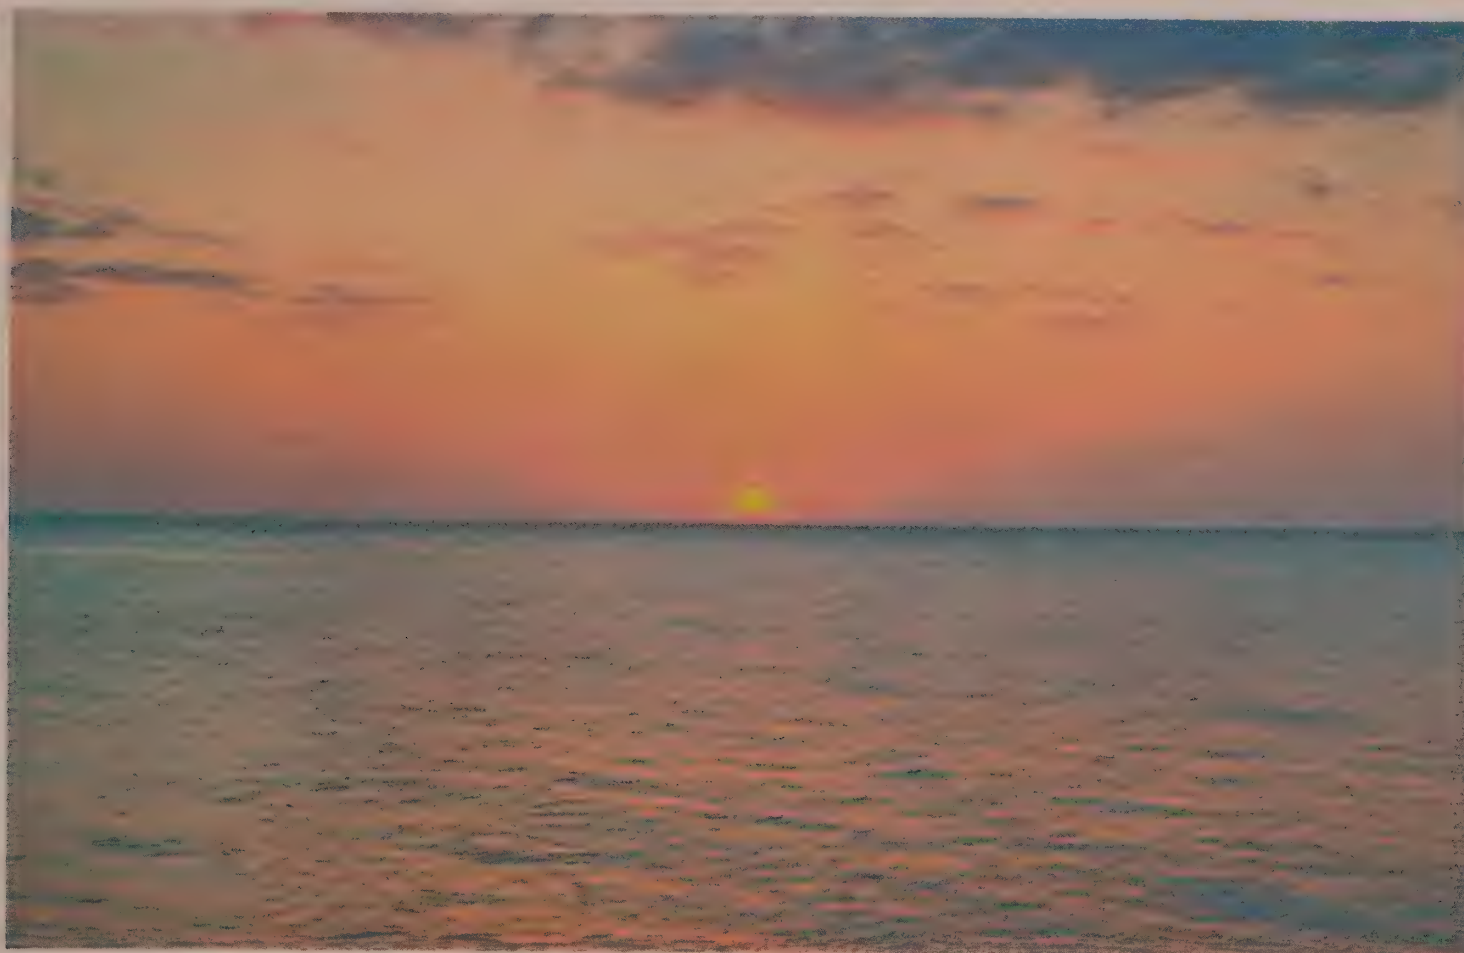

And then there was Ben Franklin. During the year after the bald eagle was selected as the national bird, Franklin, who was not on the committee to decide that, wrote to his daughter that "I wish the bald eagle had not been chosen the representative of our country. He is a bird of bad moral character. He does not get his living honestly... and besides he is a rank coward: The little king bird, not bigger than a sparrow, attacks him boldly and drives him out of the district."

Legend says he wanted the wild turkey to be the symbol. But there's never been any proof of that.

At the present time, a bald eagle nest is in the crook of a tree on the lawn of Great Neck South High School. They can be studied from the windows. 🦅

Sunshine, Manafort and Fentanyl According to Dan

BY DAN RATTINER

Daylight Saving Time

I was 15-years-old when I first came out to the East End. Until then, I lived in a New Jersey suburb called Millburn where, block after block and town after town, things were all lawns and houses and downtowns and roads connecting things. It went on like this forever, which in retrospect made sense because at that age, mobility amounted to wherever your parents took you. Home was our house. It was the same house all through my growing up. People were different, but the landscape was just a flat inland place upon which people did stuff.

In my 15th year, however, my dad and mother moved us all out to the East End. My dad had visited here before we left, but I hadn't.

Here was a landscape so varied it kind of knocked my socks off. We had woods, beaches, ocean, farms, fishing villages, pastures, cliffs and little New England downtowns that were just laced with all sorts of inland bodies of water—ponds, lakes, bays, inlets, coves, harbors and even, if you looked hard enough, rivers. Arching over it was sunshine. It was a landscape that was in your face. I wanted as much of it as I could get.

I came to live for the sun. Others did too. In summertime, when we had more of it, they flocked here. In wintertime they left. Indeed, as a lover of all this, I came to relish sunrises and sunsets. I went out to the beach (or on it in a four-wheel-drive vehicle) for sunrises as much as possible. Sunsets tend to be over bays and harbors. It's nice to watch it happen from a restaurant, which has a view of it as it sets. There's the green flash sometimes.

This also put me in touch with the turning of the planet and its elliptical orbit which wobbles as it races around the sun. Summers were filled with more sun because of that.

But it also put me in touch with what happens in the autumn. And I understand that as we wobble, if we wobble one way we will wobble back the other way to make up for it before the year is done. I get it. But really, what happened on November 5, which happens every first Saturday night in November, is just really hard to take. Slowly but surely, as we creep up toward that date, the sun sets earlier and earlier. It sets wonderfully in June and early July well after dinner—between eight and nine o'clock. In September and October it sets around six or seven.

Then came November 5. Kaboom! You can't see the place all day anymore. It's like the sun went over a cliff. In just one day, it goes from setting late in the afternoon to practically post lunchtime. There is almost no afternoon. It's like there's something wrong with the planet. And the clocks all have to be adjusted. Then sunset creeps slowly earlier and even earlier. By December, it will begin to set around 3:45 p.m. and be down fully at 4:21 p.m. It's bad. I think something ought to be done about this. We've been to the moon. We can do something with sunshine.

I have heard that in Austria, there is a town that sits on the north side of a mountain where it is in shadow all year. They've rigged up a series of mirrors around the side of this mountain and been able to have the sunshine carted to where it never was before. The people are happy. Whoever dreamed up this business of shutting down our daylight hours all of a sudden like this—some say it was the German government during World War I, others say it was the British or President Franklin D. Roosevelt—that person should be allowed to be awake only at night. They'd see nothing. All boring. That's what I think.

Trump Advisor

Paul Manafort's Hamptons Problem

If former Trump campaign chairman Paul Manafort is convicted of having used overseas shell companies to funnel money toward the purchase of luxury goods—he has been indicted along with associate Rich Gates, both of whom have pleaded not guilty—these goods may be subject to forfeiture. The indictment lists properties he would have to forfeit, and among them is the 2.37-acre lot at 174 Jobs Lane in Bridgehampton, just off Ocean Road. The lot includes a 5,574-square-foot single-family residence with 10 bedrooms and 6 baths, a swimming pool, tennis court and a half basketball court. A moat in the front yard surrounds a small island with plantings (a footbridge goes to it). There's statuary and a guesthouse. The assessed value is $1.9 million.

Among the alleged payments sent out by the shell companies for Manafort, according to the indictment, were those for "expenses" that included $5.4 million to a Hampton home improvement company, and more than $820,000 paid to two Hamptons landscapers between 2008 and 2014.

Other properties include a $1.5 million, 2,150-square-foot loft at 29 Howard Street in Manhattan; a suburban home in Arlington, Virginia (for which he paid a reported $1.9 million); and a brownstone at 377 Union Street in Carroll Gardens, Brooklyn valued at $3 million.

Then came November 5. You can't see the place all day anymore. It's like the sun went over a cliff. There is almost no afternoon.

And other expenses, according to the FBI, went to a rug store in Alexandria, Virginia ($934,350), and a clothing store in Beverly Hills ($520,440).

This supposed "laundering" took place with money allegedly given to Manafort for American lobbying services by former Ukrainian Prime Minister Viktor Yanukovich's Party of Regions, which the FBI says Manafort neither noted on his income taxes nor mentioned when he applied for security clearance in 2016, swearing he did not do any work for any foreign power. This former Prime Minister Viktor Yanukovich is a friend of Vladimir Putin and supporter of Russia, he was overthrown in a relatively peaceful revolution five years ago by new leadership that wanted closer ties with the west. (What they got was an invasion from Russia, still ongoing.)

I wonder if all these charges would be hitting Manafort over the head today if he had not taken the job with the Trump campaign between March and August of 2016.

Huge Cache of Opioid Drug Found Here

U.S. drug enforcement authorities raided a home on the East End and confiscated more than 1 million doses of fentanyl two weeks ago. This is a drug originally developed for veterinarians to knock out a horse or other large animal. Reportedly, three milligrams of fentanyl will put a 20,000-pound elephant to sleep. It's that powerful.

It's now being used as a drug of choice for addicts around the country and has overtaken heroin. No one expects to die from it when they take this powerful opioid, but they sure do. Nearly 60,000 Americans died from drug overdoses in 2016. As for the fentanyl, according to CBS New York, Tim Sini, the Suffolk County Police Commissioner, said that these 1 million doses were enough to kill hundreds of thousands of individuals.

Arrested at this house on Edwards Avenue in Mastic were Corey Robinson, 24, Thomas Moore, 41, and Daequane Rickenbacker, 25. Also confiscated, police said, were 7,400 rounds of ammunition, a 2007 Mercedes Benz and two cell phones. The fentanyl came from China.

When the police came, the authorities said, Moore released a dog on a chain that began to charge at the officers. It had to be shot, but is now recovering in an animal hospital nearby.

THE REAL FAKE NEWS

Out of Control

Online Portals Must Abide by Media Rules to Stop This

BY DAN RATTINER

The revelations in recent days about the specific ways the Russians have gone on the internet to influence our presidential election is shocking. But the emphasis on blaming the messenger for it—Facebook, Twitter, Google—is misguided. These, and other businesses like them, have always considered themselves, from the beginning, only as platforms. And nobody told them different.

Until now, anyway, they have taken the position that, although someone shouldn't be allowed to shout fire in a crowded theater, if someone does, you shouldn't blame the theater owner. You arrest the shouter for inciting the riot. Under the same logic, you can't blame the post office for delivering a letter that might contain an anonymous death threat. Find out who made the death threat. Punish them. That's not the post office's job.

But Facebook, Google, Twitter and others are no longer just terrific ways to share information and keep people in touch. They have also become purveyors of news, information and entertainment—a great media force of biblical proportions that is not, but should be, their problem to deal with. But we've never given them guidelines.

For other media, there are rules and regulations, groups, organizations and associations that monitor what those media do. There are consequences when certain lines are crossed. You are not free to write or say horribly inaccurate things about others when millions of people are watching, reading or listening. You cannot incite a riot. You can't show behavior that goes beyond certain bounds (child pornography is an example). You get arrested, sued or both.

You have to be responsible when you are a member of the media.

As a member of a responsible medium there are things I cannot do.

I cannot declare as fact something I know not to be true. I can be sued for libel. I will be fired.

I will never get a job in the media again.

I can state what I believe to be facts or what is rumored to be facts, provided I indicate within the piece that this is what it is.

I can state an opinion. But I must present it as such.

I cannot print or show doctored footage or articles while insisting they are real.

I cannot publish fake news such as attributing a "fact" to an authority that is either not an authority or is in fact someone I made up.

I can publish a hoax but it must be so outrageous that any normal person would see it was just meant to entertain. The Onion can do that. Saturday Night Live can do that. I can do that. Any medium can do that.

I cannot commit a crime. I cannot urge others to commit a crime.

I cannot learn of someone who has committed a crime and withhold evidence from the authorities that they might need for the prosecution of a case. (There are First Amendment "Sunshine" (Continued on next page)

Control (Continued from previous page)

Laws, but they don't stay in force forever.)

There are no licenses required to be in the media, and there shouldn't be. But people in the media are held to a higher standard anyway. There are organizations that give out awards for good work—Pulitzers, Peabody Awards and so forth. And there are organizations you can join to pledge to certain standards. There are none of any consequence yet for the work on the internet portals.

At the end of this article, I will suggest what rules or higher standards should apply for those who use the internet as a medium. The rules for one kind of medium are not always the same as the rules for another. It's complicated. It's a matter for discussion. But it is now the time for our leaders to have that discussion and to provide the guidance of what is allowed or not allowed. And it has to come soon.

Here are examples of horror shows and the people who currently create them without consequences. They should be prevented. I think we can tell the difference between free speech and crying fire in a crowded theater.

People who use "comments" to send wolf packs of hate mail so vicious, inaccurate, threatening and foul-mouthed to anyone they choose while hiding behind an unknown user name.

People using the internet who are sex predators looking to prey upon children.

People using the internet who work as hackers and break into websites to hold valuables hostage for ransom, turn vulnerable regular people to violence, steal money and interfere with the political processes of democracies.

People using the internet who destroy internet infrastructure for the purpose of revenge, patriotic advantage and simple chaos.

People using the internet who make up facts out of thin air and broadcast them as true and present them as believable.

Companies that are fake who use the internet to defraud and ruin others.

People who use the internet to confuse and steal from the elderly.

People who offer up child pornography on the internet.

People who use the internet to show how to make bombs and poison gas.

People who use the internet to show disgusting things that are beyond the bounds of decency.

People who use the internet to brainwash others into committing murder in the name of some religion.

People who steal other people's information.

I'll take a crack at what ought to be done. (I might add that all these things are either prohibited or punished in all other media outlets I know.)

People who violate these rules and who want to continue to post things anonymously or with a fake user name should be required to provide their real names and contact information to the media portal, which can be released to the general public upon request.

People who violate these rules should be turned over to the authorities for possible prosecution.

People who violate these rules repeatedly should be prevented from using the internet. And people who violate these rules should be put on a list available to anyone who wishes to see it.

You have to be responsible when you are a member of the media. As a member of a responsible medium there are things I cannot do.

We have parental controls. We need to have neighbor controls. There should be a control in place on every computer that, when turned on, can prevent the use of a particular computer to accept information or put out any information that violates this series of behavior that violates human decency.

I am a journalist living in a country in which I feel free to write what I want. And yet there are restraints. They relate to the 10 Commandments and right and wrong. All should be taken up by this new way of communicating.

If we don't put rules into place, I would be in favor of, when the next time comes that the internet gets shut down from an attack, we leave it shut down.

We got along without it before we had it and we can get along without it now. 🐼

The Ellen Hermanson FOUNDATION

Thank you to our supporters for making Ellen's Run a Dan's Best of the Best Platinum Winner, again!

See you in Southampton on Sunday, August 19, 2018

Ellen's Run
23RD ANNUAL

The Ellen Hermanson Foundation ensures access to state-of-the-art breast health care and empowers people affected by cancer. Funds raised provide access to essential health care in our own community through mammography screenings at the Ellen Hermanson Breast Center at Southampton Hospital and its satellite location in Hampton Bays. Through Ellen's Well, The Ellen Hermanson Foundation provides oncological social worker-led support groups, nutrition, yoga, reiki and other healing opportunities for breast cancer survivors—free of charge. No patient is turned away from The Ellen Hermanson Breast Center for lack of insurance or inability to pay for treatment. Money raised through Ellen's Run—and all of our events—stays in the East End Community, where it can do the most good.

HALL OF FAMERS!

Since the very first year in which votes were cast for Dan's Best of the Best, the public has chosen—originally via ballots printed in the paper that were dropped off to a box at the Bridgehampton office or mailed in, now online at DansBOTB.com and via the new Dan's Papers App—a select group of East End businesses, venues, events, performers and more as Dan's Best of the Best, a designation that has become a coveted and welcome honor for all who have won.

Over the years, some have won this title numerous times, so Dan's Papers instituted the Dan's Best of the Best Hall of Fame to pay specific homage to those who rise to the top of the list every year. To qualify for the Hall of Fame, you must have won 10 times in the past and must be presented for Hall of Fame consideration by both the general public and members of the East End business community.

This year Dan's Papers is delighted to induct four new members into the Hall of Fame, all of whom we feel truly represent the Best of the Best.

i-hamptons' 2017 Hamptons RipTide: $ink or $wim

The first step is the hardest: coming up with a compelling and saleable idea. The second step is often as difficult: finding a way to finance it. i-hamptons, a networking organization and hub for entrepreneurs founded by Ashley John Heather earlier this year, put the “how do I find start-up money?” question to a panel of experts at a full-house gathering for members over the summer.

As a next step, i-hamptons is putting seed money on the table over the Thanksgiving weekend. Southampton Village Mayor Michael Irving will be there to kick off the organization's first annual Shark Tank-style event, RipTide: $ink or $wim, to be held at the Southampton Arts Center on Saturday, November 25 from 3.30 p.m. to 6 p.m. He will also deliver the prizes, which will include up to $25,000 for the winning start-ups. Four finalists out of the 20 local entrepreneurs who submitted new business ideas will be selected to pitch their ideas LIVE to a panel of distinguished “sharks” and a live audience estimated at around 150 people.

Each start-up will be asked to give a five-minute presentation, followed by a 10-minute Q&A. Distinguished panel members include Jeff Brodlieb, a Partner at Centripetal Capital Partners, David Bohnett, a philanthropist, technology entrepreneur and founder of Geocities, Kathleen King, author and founder of Tate's Bake Shop, and Bion Bartning, entrepreneur and co-founder of EOS Beauty.

Everyone attending the event will play a part in picking the winners. The prize money will be awarded both to the panel's and the audience's favorite project. And that's not all. In addition to start-up funding, winners will receive two important bonuses: mentoring time with panel members, since experienced support is a key factor in sustaining and growing a new business; and a further opportunity to raise more capital as needed. That's to say nothing about the PR that will come with being a 2017 Hamptons Riptide winner!

RIP TIDE [HAMPTONS] $ink or $wim™

Descriptions and videos of the start-ups submitted are currently posted on the i-hamptons website for a two-week voting period, at i-hamptons.com/riptide. Choose from a wide range of innovative products and services covering four categories—Health & Wellness, Food, Drink and Hospitality, Media and Technology, and Retail and Consumer products.

Anyone in the Hamptons community, as well as friends and contacts, can comment and rate each business idea. For those that can't be at the finale event, Riptide will be streamed live at i-hamptons.com/live entrepreneur himself, moved to the Hamptons from Manhattan with his wife and children four years ago. Recognizing that more people are choosing to move out of the city and can run their businesses from anywhere—no formal office needed—Heather saw an opportunity to create what he calls an “innovation hub” in the Hamptons; to attract new entrepreneurs of all ages and grow existing year-round business for those that already exist, and to build a diverse and vibrant year-round community. He knows that business resources and a supportive environment are key elements in sustaining new ventures. His goal is to provide locally all the resources needed for start-ups, including co-working spaces and a supportive network of new and local entrepreneurs.

Thanks go to several sponsors who are supporting this event, including Dan's Hamptons Media, WELJ 104.7, Southampton Social Club, Hamptons Luxury Liner, Farrell Fritz Attorneys, Omnigon and The Spur. Let's all welcome and support the entrepreneurs participating in this first annual Riptide innovation event.

Participating start-ups in 2017 Hamptons RipTide: $ink or $wim include: Cobbler Concierge, CoCreate Media, Corktails, DOC POWER, DreamyKid, Five North Chocolate, Green Design, Hamptons Spirit Festival, ITM Corp, Keith's Nervous Breakdown, Linkilinki, Little Vicky's, Mica Board, Natural Science Solutions, Premex, Shlocker: the Shower Locker, Spirit Crowns, The Subtle Tea Company Sweet Vineyards, Tote Taxi. 🍷

This Week's Cover Artist: Cindy Shechter

BY BRIAN CUDZILO

HONORING THE ARTIST

Cindy Shechter started teaching art in a Brooklyn elementary school in the late '60s where she taught the future graffiti artist Jean Michel Basquiat. "I like to think that I had some influence on his success as an artist," she said when we talked to her about her work.

What inspired "A Tree in the Field?"

I saw a tree up in the Catskill Mountains and I photographed it. Although the photograph was in color the tree seemed to have more life and character in it than the photo revealed. I used the photograph as a guide for my painting. I feel that art should be more than just a copy of reality, and that the function of the artist is to interpret reality through his own eyes. Because of that I added lots of color and texture to bring out what I saw as the tree's real character.

What draws you to trees as a subject?

My husband and I started spending time at our vacation home in the mountains and suddenly trees were all around me. I began to take a closer look. The trunks were a neutral gray-brown color, but the texture of the bark and the branches, the patterns, the lines and the rhythms they each presented were all unique. They each spoke to me in a different way. I brought them to life with prismatic color and emphasized their individual textures and patterns. My goal is to try to capture the expressive quality of an individual tree as well as its natural beauty.

You usually express yourself via Abstract Expressionism, something casual art observers often disregard. What do they need to know in order to better appreciate the art form?

Abstract Expressionism appealed to me since the paint itself became the focus. It emphasizes shape, color, line, form and texture. It free the artist and allows him to be expressive and show emotions, spontaneity, and individual feelings. It is often hard for the casual viewer to understand Abstract Expressionism. They are looking for subject matter and often ask, "What is it?" I would tell the observer to suspend his dependence on reality and focus on how the painting makes him feel.

As a former fine art teacher can you discuss how important arts programming and education is in schools today?

Art is a universal language and a very important part of the curriculum. It's a language for the non-verbal child; it provides a means of problem solving; it is an avenue for creative thinking and exploration; it expands one's way of seeing; it is a way to explore the cultures of the world; and it can be a means to boost self-esteem. I have seen failing students awaken and "cutters" return to school because of art class.

What advice do you have for young aspiring artists?

Work all the time to improve your skills. Experiment with many different media and areas of art such as acrylic paint, oil paint, watercolors, sculpture, photography, printmaking, graphic arts, digital arts and don't limit yourselves to what has been done in the past. Visit museums, try new things, explore, experiment all the time. At the same time, take art classes to learn time-tested techniques.

Can you talk about b.j. spoke gallery and the importance of artists working together toward a common purpose?

I have enjoyed becoming a member of a diverse group of artists who speak the same art language. Seeing other artists' work, learning from them, being informally critiqued helps me grow as an artist and expand my vision. I think it helps all of our members promote the arts in the community.

Visit cindyshechter.com to see more of Shechter's work, also on display at b.j. spoke gallery, 299 Main Street, Huntington. bjspokegallery.org.

How To Celebrate Veterans Day With Veterans

At 111 years old (yes, you read that right), Richard Arvin Overton is the oldest living American veteran, having served in the South Pacific during World War II as a member of the 1887th Engineer Aviation Battalion (Colored). You read that correctly, too—the U.S. Armed Forces were officially segregated until July 26, 1948. But Overton, obviously, is not the only veteran. According to the U.S. Department of Veteran Affairs, Overton is only one of approximately 21 million living veterans. Giving the all-volunteer nature of the U.S. Armed Forces, less than 7% of our population is veterans. So, odds are, you don't know many. But that doesn't mean you can't celebrate them, and the sacrifices they make for us daily, on Veterans Day—Saturday, November 11. We've put together a list of events around the East End where you can do just that. For more events visit DansPapers.com

Take your favorite veteran—or all your favorite veterans—to the Dan's Best of the Best Celebration Concert featuring Dan's Best of the Best Platinum winner Hopefully Forgiven. The biggest bash of fall takes place Friday, November 10 at 7:30 p.m. at Suffolk Theater in Riverhead. Eat, drink, be merry and party with the winners, voters and entire East End community. This year, a portion of ticket and silent auction proceeds will go to benefit Riverhead VFW Post 2476, the true Best of the Best. DansBOTB.com

Salute parading veterans in Sag Harbor on Saturday at 10 a.m. when the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW)

Post 9082 takes to Main Street. The Southampton Veterans Days Parade will start at 10:45 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church then make its way down Jobs Lane to Agawam Park where a ceremony will be held at 11 a.m. United Veterans Organization of Patchogue, consisting of VFW Post 2913, American Legion Post 269, and AmVets Post 111 will be holding the annual Veterans Day Observance at the Four Corners (Main Street and Ocean Ave) in Patchogue from 10:30–11 a.m.

Get your vet a furry pet—for free! Kerrigan Country Realty, in partnership with Bideawee, both in Westhampton Beach, will be holding a special Pets for Vets event on Saturday from 11 a.m.–3 p.m. in front of Kerrigan's 122 Main Street office. All adoptions fees will be waived for vets. Search for the purrfect pet at bideawee.org.

On Sunday at 3 p.m., Patchogue Theatre and the Atlantic Wind Symphonic Band celebrate Veterans Day with a stirring concert in the tradition of John Philip Sousa, an American composer and conductor known particularly for American military and patriotic marches such as "The Star and Stripes Forever." patchoguetheater.org

Revisit the veterans of yesteryear at the ongoing exhibition, Over Here, Over There: Long Island and the Great War, at the Suffolk County Historical Society. The exhibition commemorates the centennial of America's entry into the First World War and features rare artifacts, maps, photographs, weaponry, posters and more depicting Long Islanders' experiences during the Great War from the front lines to the home front, neutrality to belligerence and mobilization to victory. Suffolkcountyhistoricalsociety.com

Did you get scared last month? What practical magic lasts a lot longer than Halloween night? Good dental hygiene, books and comfortable shoes, of course. But what should a Hamptonite wear while on the trail for chocolate? Dear by Renee's Acne Spot Treatment says it all right under the title on its bottle's label: "salicylic acid and camphor." A dab'll do ya, flawlessly. dearbyrenee.com

Interior designer and Holiday House founder Iris Dankner's new book, Holiday House: Ten Years of Decorating for a Cure, was released in October, which was Breast Cancer Awareness Month. The launch coincided with Holiday House's 10th anniversary, and the book documents a decade's worth of exquisitely designed rooms by over 70 top interior designers for Holiday House showhouses in both New York and the Hamptons. A 20-year breast cancer survivor and passionate fundraiser for the cause, Dankner founded the showhouse to raise awareness and funds for breast cancer research. The proceeds from Holiday House and the book benefit The Breast Cancer Research Foundation. To date, Iris' organization has raised over $1 million for BCRF®. As Iris notes in the book, "After you've had cancer, every day is a gift, every day is a holiday." Dankner, together with Honorary Chair Christopher Hyland and Design Chairs Thom Felicia and Alexa Hampton, are delighted to announce the 10th edition of Holiday House New York. The 2017 Showhouse returns to the Academy Mansion on Manhattan's Upper East Side November 15 – December 7, open daily. Robin Baron, Bjorn Bjornsson, Vanessa DeLeon, Russell Groves, Jacqueline Hosford, Young Hu, Lucinda Loya, Sarah Magness, Anna Maria Mannarino, Kim Radovich, James Rixner, Cheryl Settino Mosher, Bonnie Steves, John Stedilaand and Jaime Walters are among the designers selected to participate in this year's showhouse.

There are plenty of cozy and comfortable shoes for on-the-go women from Arcopédico®. This long-established comfort footwear brand makes gift giving easy as the only U.S. distributor of high-quality, Portuguese made comfort and travel footwear. All styles feature Arcopédico's patented metal-free twin arch support system for superior support and all-day comfort, and are all made with Arcopédico's vegan Lytech® material outer which is breathable, flexible, washable and water-resistant. Items include boots, ballerina flats, ankle boots (our favorites are the Winter Florals) and their Lisa flats—ballerina style flats featuring an asymmetric single strap with a floral print and adjustable Velcro® closure. In black or red, they are easy and comfortable from the first wear. arcopedicousa.com. 🐾

More Delicious Fodder for the Slow Cooker

BY STACY DERMONT

East Hamptonite Martha Stewart released her latest book in August—her 87th book, by some counts. Martha Stewart's Slow Cooker offers “110 recipes for flavorful, foolproof dishes (including desserts), plus test-kitchen tips and strategies.” Of course Stewart doesn't create her books alone. Her foreword notes that a talented team worked this one out. And it shows. There's a lot to chew on here. Neatly divided into Meat, Poultry, Seafood, Meatless, Side Dishes, Breakfast, Sweets, and Stocks and Sauces, the tome offers a selection of tantalizing dishes that draw on a variety of cuisines, accompanied by brief, straight-forward instructions.

I like this book a lot. The look of it (with gorgeous photos by Kent Johnson), the clean layout, the no-nonsense advice. So I dove in and tried making its Pasta e Fagioli and its Rice Pudding.

Both turned out well—almost as good as when I make them in the more traditional fashion. The pasta was a little gluey, but it was fully cooked after 20 minutes on high in the slow cooker, which came as a great relief.

The slow cooker was invented in 1940 for use by observant Jews, and America has been in love with its slow cookers since the 1970s, when more women than ever before entered the workforce. Fill it and forget it, then come home to a hot, home-cooked meal. Sounds like a great plan. But Martha Stewart's staff assures us that they spent months in the test kitchen tweaking these recipes, getting them just right. Since “crispy” and “caramelized” are not attributes often associated with slow cooker preparations, it's not unusual for a recipe to require some precooking, or to need more cooking after the slow cooker has done its job. Fresh garnishes such as cilantro, dill or grated cheese, also add to the gustatory excitement.

I don't know why the creators often confuse “broth” (made with meat and skin) and “stock” (made with bones), especially since they give recipes for the latter. And I don't know why they conflated “grunt” with “slump,” when everyone knows a slump is often served inverted, with the biscuit on the bottom. But I say hats off to any cookbook that intentionally avoids using boneless chicken breasts. I delighted in learning two things from this book: the term “propping,” which immediately became my new reason for yard saling; and the fact that some slow cooker inserts can go into the oven—one of those babies shot to the top of my list for Santa.

It's interesting that slow cookers are “hot” again, when many people are already growing weary of their Instant Pots. It took our foremothers decades to find fault with their microwave “science ovens,” despite their shortcomings. Apparently slow-cooked savory stew from a pot never goes out of style. I'll sup to that! 🍲

A lotta delish recipes from East Hampton's Martha Stewart

Spacious South of the Highway For Sale

Its 5,600 miles from New York to Cairo as the crow flies but only 104 from New York to Egypt Close.

This East Hampton house just whispers “quintessential Hamptons.” It’s made for long summer days with glasses of lemonade and games of badminton.

On Egypt Close, the property (repped by Gary DePersia of Corcoran) is south-of-the-highway yet close enough to walk to everything East Hampton has to offer. What we particularly like about it is that it’s spacious yet not enormous. The $6.495 million residence boasts 4,700 square feet, five bedrooms and 5.5 baths, set on an acre of land. Particularly nice is the kitchen, which again is generously sized but not cavernous, and was recently redone with white marble; the great room has a high, beamed ceiling and the master has a sitting area with fireplace. Not enough space? The lower level is partially finished, so more room is possible.

The house is in a lovely traditional style; there’s a darling portico to the garage and a dining pergola that overlooks the pool. There’s even a basketball half-court for when you tire of badminton. 🏀

View 5 Historic Houses Thanksgiving Weekend

Courtesy Landscape Details, Sonheyl's, Erik Davidowicz

Don't miss an opportunity to step behind the hedges and into these stunning East End homes.

BY LAURA EULER

One of our favorite holiday events is the East Hampton Historical Society's (EEHS) House & Garden Tour. This year's tour, "From the Village to the Atlantic," gives a glimpse inside some of East Hampton's most storied residences (Kilkare!). The self-guided tour is scheduled for Saturday, November 25, from 1-4:30 p.m. And don't miss the kick-off cocktail party on the evening of Friday, November 24, which will be held at the historic Maidstone Club.

Five distinguished homes are featured on the 2017 East Hampton House & Garden Tour, traditionally held over Thanksgiving weekend.

Iconic Kilkare is located within the prestigious Georgica Association, with panoramic views of Georgica Pond and the Atlantic. Built in 1877 by shipbuilders, and home to only two families since then, the three-story house has been restored with authentic detail.

On Mill Hill Lane, visit an early 20th-century cottage with French and English influences. The interiors are French inflected, with plaster walls, antique limestone floors and mantels, period beams, and a La Cornue range, while the exterior resembles an English cottage, with intricate stonework and a swooping shingled roof.

On Hunting Lane, the Elizabethan-style Woodhouse Playhouse in East Hampton Village is celebrating its centennial. Built by the legendary philanthropist and arts patron Mary Woodhouse, the current homeowners continue the legacy of Woodhouse through year-round music and theater programs, honoring the playhouse's original role as a theater and drama school. Designed by Francis Burrell Hoffman Jr., a "gentleman's architect" who was at the forefront of the Village's emergence as a premier summer colony, the Woodhouse Playhouse is of architectural significance. The 75-foot-long great room boasts a 30-foot gabled peak and church-like nave, an Aeolian-Skinner organ and massive fireplace, and has attracted many famous visitors over the years—including John Drew, John Barrymore, Isadora Duncan, the Westminster Choir, and Metropolitan Opera greats.

Tickets to the tour are $65 in advance and $75 on the day of the tour. Tickets to the opening night cocktail party are $200, which includes entry to the house tour the next day. Tickets can be purchased at the EEHS office at 101 Main Street Tuesday-Saturday from 10 a.m.-3:30 p.m., via easthamptonhistory.org, by phone, 631-324-6850, or at Clinton Academy on November 24 and 25 from 10 a.m.-3:30 p.m.
